As Orange County Announces Pilot Program for COVID-19 Vaccine Passports, Drs. Warn this is 'Unjust and Discriminatory'

'What looks like an easing of restrictions is actually a coercive scheme,' all for an experimental vaccine for a virus that is 99.98% recoverable

By Katy Grimes, April 14, 2021 4:05 pm

There is much talk across the country about establishing vaccine passports as a way to provide evidence of vaccination for COVID-19 – all for a still experimental vaccine for a virus that is 99.98% recoverable.

"The vaccine passport should be understood not as an easing of restrictions but as a coercive scheme to encourage vaccination. The idea that everybody needs to be vaccinated is as scientifically baseless as the idea that nobody does," a Wall Street Journal op-ed says.

Yet, Dr. Clayton Chau, director of the Orange County Health Care Agency and acting county health officer has proposed a pilot program for "vaccine passports" in Orange County – a "show-me-your-papers" or "digital passport" program to provide COVID vaccination evidence.

What could go wrong with the Orange County Health Care Agency planning a pilot program to figure out how proving immunity would work in the real world?

Othena is a private company that the Orange County Health Care Agency will allow to collect personal medical data and sell it or share it. Many worry this could be a prelude to a social credit system like China's where they regulate the citizens' behavior based on a point system.

The coronavirus is not smallpox, which killed 300 million people in the 20th century. This is all for a virus that is 99.98% recoverable. Talk of a vaccine passport sounds wholly un-American and rather nefarious.

Additionally, the vaccine passport is a violation of HIPAA, as is contact tracing.

The Orange County Register first reported on this Monday:

"Dr. Clayton Chau, the agency's director and county health officer, said he told state health officials Tuesday that Orange County could easily introduce a function to Othena for people who used the county's system to get vaccinated to show anyone who asks for proof.

But Chau said he worries about leaving behind people who either haven't been vaccinated yet, or who have but don't have a smartphone or internet access to use a digital version of such a passport. He suggested also issuing printed cards."

and:

"The county's rollout continues to outpace other providers – Othena vaccinations account for 35% of doses given so far; CVS pharmacies are in second with 12%, according to the OC Health Care Agency's latest data.

But what needs figuring out, Chau said, is how to bring the records of people who were vaccinated through traditional and private providers under the Othena umbrella for a passport system."

All for an experimental vaccine for a virus that is 99.98% recoverable.

The Epoch Times did not pull any punches either: "California's Orange County plans to launch a pilot program for digital CCP virus vaccine and testing passports, according to health officials."

June 16 meeting.

Many say if the gross mishandling of the coronavirus and subsequent lockdowns and mask mandates felt like crushing government overreach, imagine how bad the vaccine passport will be.

Already large entertainment organizations like Disney and professional sporting events and venues are telling fans to prepare to prove they've been vaccinated if they want to be allowed into Disneyland, or a NFL game. Ticketmaster announced plans to verify proof of vaccination or a recent negative test for COVID-19 using a digital health pass for sports fans and concertgoers who want to attend live events, MSN reported.

Coronavirus. (Photo: Center for Disease Control)

But the passports only serve to open a complicated can of worms and prolong the lockdowns, say Harvard Medical School Professor Martin Kulldorff, a biostatistician, and epidemiologist, and Dr. Jay Bhattacharya, a physician, economist and professor at Stanford Medical School. "It sounds like a way of easing coercive lockdown restrictions, but it's the opposite," they wrote in the Wall Street Journal last week. "To see why, consider dining. Restaurants in most parts of the U.S. have already reopened, at limited capacity in some places. A vaccine passport would prohibit entry by potential customers who haven't received their shots. It would restrict the freedom even of those who have: If you're vaccinated but your spouse isn't, forget about dining out as a couple."

Kulldorf and Bhattacharya warn, "The young are at low risk, and children—for whom no vaccine has been approved anyway—are at far less risk of death than from the flu. If authorities mandate vaccination of those who don't need it, the public will start questioning vaccines in general."

"The public has lost trust in officials in part because they've performed poorly—relying on lockdowns to disastrous effect—and in part because they've made clear their distrust of the public," they said. "Trust, after all, is a two-way street. Coercive vaccination policies would erode trust even further. Even well-informed people may legitimately wonder: Why are they forcing me to take this shot if it's so good for me?"

Texas Gov. Greg Abbott and Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis have already issued executive orders barring the use of vaccine passports. Expect more governors to do the same, because they witnessed that the residents of Florida and Texas are doing just fine, and there were no spikes or surges when the masks came off for good, and the states fully re-opened.

"Vaccine passports are unjust and discriminatory," Kulldorf and Bhattacharya said. "Most of those endorsing the idea belong to the laptop class—privileged professionals who worked safely and comfortably at home during the epidemic."

"Vaccines are one of the most important inventions in human history—the reason that before last year many in the West had forgotten that infectious disease could pose a populationwide threat," Kulldorf and Bhattacharya added. "Those pushing for coercive Covid vaccination threaten all this progress by undermining public trust in vaccines. In this sense, they are more dangerous than the small group of so-called anti-vaxxers have ever been."

Perhaps the most interesting and important comment in the WSJ op ed summed up one root problem – business liability: "What you need is to indemnify business from rapacious lawyers and I suspect you'll see the cry for passports to vanish."

PAULY'S PERSPECTIVE

A Message from Our President Deborah Pauly, J.D.

CPOC Holds On, Presses On, and Stands Firm On Our Guiding Principles

What a tremendous first five months CPOC has experienced. We are officially at 190 members, growing in strength, reach and scope literally every day. Our members are amazing and the guests they bring are like-minded patriots. We are single-minded in our pursuit of good governance, holding our elected officials accountable, limiting government's control over our lives and demanding the full measure of the freedoms guaranteed to us under the Constitution of the United State of America.

There is a civil war within the Republican Party. CPOC is blatant evidence of that divide. The true conservatives of CPOC (and similar groups) should not have to be the loyal opposition to the Republican Party. The Republican Party should do its job and be the loyal opposition to the left, to the socialists, to the communists who are pushing a globalist agenda. Too often, we find Republicans in bed with the enemy.

You would think Republicans have no good candidates to support. That is not true. May's PARADE AT THE PODIUM was an exceptional procession of one outstanding candidate after another. Sixteen candidates presented themselves to the voters and opinion leaders there. It was a blessing to hear such commitment to our founding principles, expressed forcefully and with genuine spirit. Over 120 patriots were in attendance and we were of one accord that night. The fellowship was uplifting and hopeful. It was a throwback to old-school Americana, with hotdogs, apple pie and stump speeches at the County Fair. I'm so sorry, if you had to miss it. See coverage in this edition of the Conservative Chronicle.

We also participated in the City of Orange's revived May Parade on Saturday, May 7. CPOC was decked out in red, white and blue. We had a blast. See coverage in this edition, as well.

Election integrity remains a primary focus of CPOC and will remain a focus until we are fully satisfied that integrity has been restored to the election process in Orange County. Under the leadership of CPOC's Election Integrity Committee (EIC) Chairman James Peters, the EIC team delivered over 120 completed claim forms for damages incurred due to lack of election integrity and transparency surrounding November 3, 2020 voting and ballot tallying.

Additionally, in this Primary Election, EIC is challenging 744,000 questionable voter registrations based on probable cause after hours of combing the Orange County voter rolls, which is a job that the Registrar of Voters is charged with doing and the Board of Supervisors is charged with ensuring. Private citizens had to do that job because the government has not. Mr. Peters will be giving an important update at the June meeting.

In mid-June CPOC will repost the Rumble videos from recent EIC actions. We had a little glitch with our website, but that should be straightened out soon. Nonetheless, PAULY'S PICKS for the primary can be accessed at <https://conservative-patriots-of-orange-county.square.site>

June's meeting will be a very important one. I encourage you to bring guests to hear first-hand from Orange County Informed & United as this team presents an in-depth report on the Vaccine Passport Contract being implemented in our own backyard and its ties to a globalist agenda. For security reasons, this presentation will not be taped. No photography will be allowed. This is a substantial briefing for serious-minded patriots. You do not want to miss it. You might want to invited open-minded elected officials as your guests.

CPOC will never blindly support the "establishment-blessed" candidate. There may be times when the official party apparatus gets it right and, more importantly, for the right reasons. They will be aligned with us then. Praise God for those moments because we will taste victory. We will not and cannot unite behind globalists or swamp-dwellers. We are looking for well-reasoned and consistent warriors for America. As Constitutional Conservatives, the only reasonable course of action is to put America First. We are looking for elected officials who are the real deal. Milquetoast lip-service will not cut it any more. That's how we got into this mess in the first place.

We are dark in July and August. We all need rest after a rowdy primary season. Rest up! We'll tackle the November general election in the Fall. Do not be faint-hearted in this fight. Be persistent. Be bold. Hold on. Our core principles rest on solid ground.

Heavenly Father,

We acknowledge You as the Author of Liberty, our Protector and King. We seek Your guidance and blessing so that liberty will continue in the United States of America. In Your Word, You have given us choices, so that we would be blessed. Thank You, Lord, that we still have the freedom to gather at meetings, rallies, street corners and in church with like-minded family and friends. As we are just days away from the California primary, we pray for those who are working to promote election integrity. Grant them success so that liberty and truth will conquer evil.

May each of us honor You in our daily lives.

Amen.

CPOC endorses Erik Peterson for Board of Equalization, District 4

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE - Orange, California (May 20, 2022) — At its May general membership meeting the Conservative Patriots of Orange County (CPOC) overwhelmingly voted to endorse Erik Peterson for Board of Equalization, District 4.

The vote was taken by paper ballot after three of the leading conservative candidates presented themselves to the members and guests assembled at the unapologetically patriotic special event. PARADE AT THE PODIUM. All five conservative candidates were invited to participate for consideration.

“Erik Peterson really impressed the room,” said CPOC President Deborah Pauly. “Erik is a humble and reliable public servant. He is a U.S. Marine who takes his oath of office as a serious charge. It’s clear that he’s an America First candidate who will be a bold advocate for taxpayers, but measured in his approach. Erik is not afraid to stand alone in the gap and we need that right now. We congratulate Erik on a great showing.”

Although many guests were in attendance, only existing CPOC members were eligible to vote on the endorsement. The paper ballots were counted by CPOC Election Integrity Officer James Peters and CPOC Chaplain Faith Canedo.

Conservative Patriots of Orange County Orange May Parade

Conservative Patriots of Orange County patriotically marched in the Orange May Parade. The first parade was held in 1933 to mark the beginning of the Valencia orange packing season. Now it brings people together to celebrate the community.

From President Deborah Pauly:

“CPOC had a blast and was very well-received at the City of Orange May Parade on Saturday morning. Special thanks to CPOC Public Relations Director Laura Thomas for coordinating our entry with the organizers and to Chuck Pennington of Pennington Auto Sales for loaning us the nifty red Lexus convertible.

James Wallace, of The Cal Report, drove our lovely Ways and Means Vice President Martha Ming and Membership Director Michelle Markel.

Grace and Victoria Peters, daughters of CPOC Election Integrity Chairman, carried our banner. CPOC President followed with a large American Flag and engaged the crowd with shouts of God Bless You and God Bless America!

Carol Bowen brought along Bella who rode in decked out stroller style!”

For more than the first 150 years of its history, the United States was a protectionist country in order to protect its fledgling manufacturing industries and then gain preeminence as an industrial nation in the 20th century. We had secure supply chain until after WWII because we imported very little and were pretty much self-sufficient for consumer goods as well as good for our national defense.

After World War II, the U.S. switched from protectionism to free trade in order to rebuild the economies of Europe and Japan through the Marshall Plan and bind the economies of the non-Communist world to the United States for geopolitical reasons.

To accomplish these objectives, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) was negotiated during the UN Conference on Trade and Employment. Originally signed by 23 countries at Geneva in 1947, GATT became the most effective instrument in the massive expansion of world trade in the second half of the 20th century.

GATT's most important principle was trade without discrimination, in which member nations opened their markets equally to one another. Once a country and one of its trading partners agreed to reduce a tariff, that tariff cut was automatically extended to all GATT members. GATT also established uniform customs regulations and sought to eliminate import quotas.

Unfortunately, our government leaders didn't pay attention to the effect this was having on American businesses, and we started having a trade deficit in 1980 because of greater imports from Japan, Germany, South Korea, Taiwan, and the Philippines.

When NAFTA went into effect in 1994, it started the trend of moving manufacturing outside the U.S. When the World Trade Organization was formed in 1995, tariffs were reduced between all member countries. However, after President Clinton granted China Most Favored Nation status in the year 2000 and China was allowed to become a member of the WTO, the great exodus to setting up manufacturing in China began, and the trade deficit sky rocketed. According to Alan Uke's book, Buying Back America, the United States has a trade deficit with 88 countries—some deficits are small, but some are enormous, such as China.

As a result, over 70,000 manufacturing sites closed in the past 25 years, and at the low point in 2010, we had lost 5.8 million middle-income lost manufacturing jobs.

Globalization of U.S. Supply Chains Failed

When the COVID pandemic hit, it sent shock waves throughout the world of manufacturing. Too late, we realized that we had become 70 to 95% import dependent, primarily on China. It was impossible to scale up our domestic supply chain fast enough for PPE goods and pharmaceuticals.

In an article, "It's About Time to Build Regional Supply Chains," on March 30, 2022 on Industry Week, Christopher S. Tang wrote, "I do believe most global supply chains are going to end. They had a good run over the last few decades, enabling Western companies to grow profitably and helping developing countries alleviate poverty. But concurrent and unprecedented events have blown apart their cost efficiency...Decades of outsourcing and offshoring have hollowed out the U.S. manufacturing sector. Building domestic supply chains in the U.S. can be time-consuming and cost-ineffective... Small and medium-sized manufacturers are facing the reality that there will inevitably be more disruptions in the future and they must prepare themselves now by strategically evaluating and mitigating their supply chain risks."

This crisis could have been prevented if more American Manufacturers had utilized Total Cost of Ownership Estimator™ that Harry Moser made available for free in 2010 when he founded the Reshoring Initiative. Mr. Moser's TCO Estimator has been the right tool to facilitate returning manufacturing to America. It actually includes calculations for the "hidden costs of doing business offshore," such as Intellectual Property risk, political instability risk, effect on innovation, product liability risk, annual wage inflation, and currency appreciation.

In my experience as a sales rep, most companies only consider the quoted piece price or landed cost, at best. Because of inaccurate data, many companies make the decision to offshore on the basis of faulty assumptions. Some faulty assumptions are: Overseas laws will protect IP, longer lead times won't affect costs much, travel costs won't be significant, communication won't be a problem, and quality will be just as good as USA. The reality is that many companies are saving less than they expected, and in some cases, the hidden costs exceed the anticipated cost savings.

We need to change the main considerations for selecting suppliers from one based on the lowest price to other considerations, such as:

- Location
- Transportation alternatives
- Inventory costs and control
- Quality controls
- Reserve capacity of supplier
- Responsiveness of supplier
- Technological depth of supplier

Choosing the right location is the most critical choice. The choices are: Made in USA, "Offshoring" to China or another location in Asia, or nearsourcing to Mexico or Canada. The location of your customers influences the choice of manufacturing location. Here are some variables to consider:

- Where are your customers? USA, Asia, Europe, Latin America
- How high is your labor content?
- Is your annual production volume forecast low, medium, or high?
- Do you have low vs. high product mix?
- What certifications are required: required? FDA, U/L, Mil Spec, ISO 9100, AS9100, etc.

There are current manufacturing trends that are also influencing supplier choice. Some of these are:

- Wages rising in China
- Increased "Made in USA" demand by government agencies and American consumers
- Additive Manufacturing
- Use of Industry 4.0 by suppliers (Automation, Robotics, Industrial Internet of Things (IIOT))

Some of the advantages of sourcing in the USA are:

- No Intellectual Property infringement
- Ease of communication
- Flexible delivery by means of reliable transportation

- Smoother design changes
- Lower cost of inventory
- Higher quality parts
- Lower travel expenses
- Favorable Purchase Order and Credit Terms

In today's manufacturing supply chain, Reshoring helps companies have:

- Faster lead times: 49-50% reduction
- Delivery accuracy: 30-40% improved
- Ability to respond swiftly to unforeseen disruptions
- Handle volatile demand as closer proximity to customers drives agility
- Increased competitiveness
- Better serving local markets while maintaining low costs

I strongly believe that if more companies would learn to understand and utilize the Reshoring Initiative's TCO estimator (free at www.reshorenw.org), they would realize that the best value for their company is to source their parts, assemblies, and products in America.

America is at a crossroads. We can either continue down the path of increasing trade deficits, increasing national debt, and loss of manufacturing jobs by allowing anything mined, manufactured, grown, or serviced to be outsourced to countries with predatory trade policies. Or, we can forge a new path by developing and implementing a national strategy to win the international competition for good jobs, sustained economic growth, and create a strong, secure domestic supply chain.

Doing this will help us achieve the vision of Industry Reimagined 2030 to change the national narrative of American manufacturing from a prevailing worldview of "inevitable decline" to one of "vibrant opportunity."

If enough manufacturing is "reshored" from China, we would drastically reduce our national average annual trade deficit of more than $700 billion. By 2030, we could also add five million middle-income manufacturing workers to the American workforce.

Carol Bowen

Financial Officer & Fantasy of Trees Fundraiser Chair

After 34 years in the field of medical diagnostics sales and management, including director of sales for the western U.S. for Ciba-Corning Diagnostics and national sales manager for Dako Corporation, Carol retired. Her goal was to spend time giving back to the community. She first joined Orange Republican Women Federated (ORWF) as a pro-temp treasurer in 2009, became treasurer of Orange County Federation of Republican Women for two years and then president of ORWF for five years. In her final years with ORWF, she served on and off as newsletter editor.

In late 2021, Carol and 11 other ORWF board members felt that with Orange County's changing demographics, there was a massive need to reach more conservative patriot voters. Their focus was on "conservative patriots" over party affiliation.

"As we moved forward to found Conservative Patriots of Orange County (CPOC), we invited the well-respected Deborah Pauly to join our team and assist with our vision," explained Carol adding, "And wow did she as president!"

When CPOC was officially founded it had only its 12-member board of directors. Today, less than six months later, CPOC is close to 200 members. Carol explains the club's phenomenal growth. "Our membership is growing because there are many conservative patriots who are not aligned with a party or do not want to leave the party they are with. We also give full membership to both men and women. Conservative Patriots of Orange County welcomes all patriots!"

Carol now serves as CPOC financial officer as well as chairwoman of the CPOC annual fundraiser Fantasy of Trees. Her daughter Michelle lives nearby, and she is also mother to her rescued Bichon Frise Bella!

ELECTION INTEGRITY

By James Peters

CPOC Election Integrity Committee Chairman

The Mesa County, Colorado machine audits are perfect proof, that our vote no longer counts due to voting machine fraud. The Voting Machines can and have deleted ballots. In the 2020 Election, the Voting Machines deleted 90% of ballots in Mesa County and then replaced them with new ballots, to help the chosen officials win. The machines are online. The machines violate Federal and State election laws. Data logs showing internet history are intentionally deleted. Elections using voting machines are a total mockery of our Election System. They deny what our Founding Fathers first envisioned for Americans, which is to have a Free and Fair Republic where everyone's vote would count and have Equal Representation as described in the 14th Amendment to the US Constitution.

The Mesa County DA opened his presentation saying how the First Forensic Computer Audit and Second Forensic Computer Audit where essentially a waste of his time to review, as they showed no Election Fraud. District Attorney Rubenstein then went on to essentially put LIPSTICK on the Voting Machine PIG and tried to convince everyone in the Mesa County hearings the week of May 15th that machines are a BEAUTY QUEEN, and everyone should be ENAMORED and see how GLAMAROUS they are. The DA consulted Dominion Voting Machines Corporate Technical team to try and understand what happened to the machines in the 2020 General Election and the Special 2021 Election. Why would the DA not consult with an independent unbiased computer cyber expert to obtain a Third-Party assessment of what happened? The DA went through surveillance videos from the 2020 election for the voting machines as they were being used (which were so blurry no one could see anything on them), to basically do a SMOKE AND MIRRORS show, to explain why there were two data bases and why the original one was deleted. The DA did CPOC Election Integrity Chair James Peters addresses the club at our May meeting.

ZERO technical analysis inside the machine. It was like watching your credit card to detect credit fraud! Impossible! It really was a disgusting example of corrupt law enforcement has yet to enforce the law Election Laws of our Country in relation to Voting Machines.

Signs of Fraud that the DA ignored or downplayed in those reports and outside of those reports:

- 30 minutes of video from Election Night is missing
- The Voting Machines violate State and Federal Laws
- The Voting Machines deleted data logs that prove they were online
- 36 internal modems were found in the voting machines
- Over 85,000 ballots out of roughly 91,000 ballots were deleted and replaced by a new set of fake ballots

The DA demonstrated a complete lack of computer proficiency as he stated it was impossible to update the operating system while a machine is offline. A simple Internet search can show the average user how to do that. It is also extremely difficult to understand why he and his team of attorneys, who are embarrassingly computer illiterate, did not consult at least one outside Independent non-biased Cyber Expert, but instead leaned upon Dominion Voting Machines for Technical Input.

It was also shocking to hear that the DA was offended that Tina Peters and the Audit Team, who did the Forensic Election Machine Reports, denied them an interview. It is that exact same DA who is trying to put Tina Peters and her auditors behind bars. Do they not see a conflict of interest?

The DA admitted to not investigating:

The presence of unauthorized software
The Certification of the Voting Machines
Destruction of Election Records

The real problem with our election system is the Fox is watching the hen house, with the Registrar of Voters auditing their own elections with the 1% Risk Audit and the Voting Machine Company auditing their own voting machines. Independent unbiased oversight is always the key to transparency.

Now I believe we should all still go to the polls in person, and vote on Election Day. We do need to keep the habit of doing our Patriotic Duty to vote for candidates we feel support our values and beliefs. One day, hopefully soon, our vote will count again.

May God have mercy on Mesa County and all counties in the USA, so the criminals are brought to Justice and the corrupt DA's, Judges and Sheriffs pay an even greater price for covering up the stolen 2020 Election and other stolen elections in our country. Justice is a debt owed the people and our debt is growing to a massive size with daily interest accredited to it as the Elite is stealing Election after Election.

This is what they are going to talk about at the June 16 Conservative Patriots of Orange County meeting. The information is so sensitive, they will NOT allow the meeting to be videotaped!

Boy, Are You a Victim! You're Hired!

by Robin Itzler (proud CPOC member)

Published on American Thinker—May 25, 2022

As I watch people attain positions of stature and wealth thanks to their ability to tick off specific victim category boxes, it occurs to me that this is, at last, the time for me to achieve my lifelong dream.

Many people believe that Kamala Harris was offered the vice presidency solely because she is a woman "of color." (Her father is Jamaican, and her mother is from India.) This meant that Harris checked off two important boxes. Her disastrous performance and inability to speak coherently don't bother liberals because she meets their P.C. demands.

Ditto for Pete Buttigieg, who it's said became secretary of Transportation primarily because he checks off a gay pride box. When he's not home breastfeeding his adopted twins, Buttigieg is dreadfully overseeing the ongoing supply chain fiasco.

More recently, Karine Jean-Pierre was promoted to press secretary because she checks off three boxes: lesbian, black, and woman. Liberals don't care that she can't perform the duties of her job — just that she checks off boxes.

Watching so many people move up the ladder solely because they check off boxes on a form made me determined to follow my lifelong dream. Here is a transcript of my job interview with Dr. Paxson Corbetzalug, known affectionately as "PC."

PC: I've read your résumé and wonder why you are applying for this position.

RI: All my life, I have dreamed of being a neurosurgeon.

PC: There are more than 600 neurological diseases, with some caused by faulty genes. Can you share your views about Huntington's disease?

RI: No, but as a woman, I've been to the Huntington Library in Pasadena.

PC: Excellent, you're a woman! Do you have experience dealing with diseases of the blood vessels that supply the brain, such as a stroke?

RI: No, but as a senior, I've taken cruises on many different vessels.

PC: Excellent, you're a senior! Do you have any experience with spinal cord or spinal column injuries?

RI: No, but being Jewish, I am a big fan of Rob Reiner's cult film This Is Spinal Tap.

PC: Excellent, you're a minority religion! Posterolateral lumbar fusion is one of the more common neurological procedures. Have you any understanding about it?

RI: No, but being almost deaf never stopped me from buying lumber.

PC: Excellent, you're disabled!

RI: Do I get the job as a neurosurgeon?

PC: Let's see — you don't know a damn thing about neurology, but if I hire you as a neurosurgeon, the hospital can show that we hired an older minority deaf woman. That's fantastic! Can you start tomorrow?
